BE KIND REWIND

Still feeling good from last night band practise, "Do we really want to hurt you?" on the gramophone, chilling on my balcony and thinking forward to the Rinus Michels 'Voetbal is oorlog' gig at the OCCII on the 9th of July 2013.

Dunno, maybe it's the attention I get from my dog or it's the first T-shirt day of the year, but life feels damn good.

Today is my birthday, so a good time to reminisce. In 1993, I started a 'real' band and promoting gigs -now loads of gigs, tours, bands, recordings, releases, magazines, festivals later and I'm still busy with the same old crap and it still gives me that boost. In all these years within this DIY scene I've seen a lot of people come and go. THAT'S LIFE

-NO PROBLEM. A good thing about the OCCII is that there is place for the 40 years and up dinosaurs of the scene and the snotty young new kids on the block. For them walking straight at entrance into the geezer clica, through the bottleneck at the bar, sound booth and distro stands looking similar to their first day at highschool.

That is a feeling I loved when I first went to gigs in the late eighties, the new world... FUCK YEAH.

Let's welcome the kids, let them set up gigs, start bands, do zines and labels... Face it when we dinosaurs will be too old to thrash. We must have a good believable foundation to take over!
